Air of Simplicity Will Prevail At White House Social Functions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—If White House functions are described as "brilliant" this winter, it will be because of the presence of diplomatic uniforms, not because of costly appointments.

So Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told her press conference today in outlining the changes that will take place in the round of official entertaining soon to be announced.

The whole scheme will be simpler, she said—fewer guests at any one reception; no luxuries served at official dinners; and no "wasting of money for pure show when money is needed." Also the president's dining out is to be curtailed to one dinner with the vice president.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she and her husband had held several serious conversations on whether to do any of official entertaining at all in view of the economic situation.

"I feel very strongly that not to have such hospitality would be a mistake," she said. "I feel that in times like these, one of the most helpful things is to see our friends."

On this theory of friendliness as the essence of White House hospitality, Mrs. Roosevelt said she would serve refreshments, such as fruit punch and simple cakes, at the official receptions—a plan which has not been followed for several administrations.

Prisoner Breaks Jail With Coffee Pot Ruse

OKLAHOMA, Miss., Oct. 5.—(AP) Clinton Sanders, 35, was at large today because a jailer at the Chickasaw county jail took him his coffee in a pot, instead of a cup, last night.

Held pending a hearing on charges of forgery and false pretense, Sanders asked Jailer G. C. Carlisle to bring him his coffee in a pot last night.

The jailer was unable to shove the pot through the iron bars and entered the cell, he said, and Sanders flashed a gun, took his keys and locked him in.

Officers are seeking the person who smuggled the pistol in to Sanders.

G. OF C. BODY HERE TO STUDY RACKETS

Plans Laid for Southeastern Division Meeting in Atlanta.

Preliminary plans for a meeting of the southeastern division of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Atlanta November 19, 20 and 21 were released Thursday at a meeting of the president's advisory committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce at which the suggestion of Guy Woolford for a national affairs committee was adopted.

The committee also authorized appointment of committees to study national referenda on competing forms of transportation and to study ways and means of combating organized crime and to co-operate with the national campaign against racketeering.

Henry I. Harrison, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be the principal speaker at the southeastern division banquet on Monday night, November 20, according to a telegram read from L. P. Dickie, manager of the division.

Organization presidents and secretaries will confer on Sunday night, November 19, and the program for the following Monday will include exposition by high officials of the government program on agricultural adjustments in the south, southern credit, money, production and marketing, public works, southern business and the NRA, credit for industry and commerce, opening of closed banks, and deposit insurance.

On the motion of W. R. C. Smith, who said that the business interest of the southeast is not as articulate as it should be in the affairs of the nation, the committee voted to create a national affairs committee of men who believe that the country needs a voice in national matters.

Alfred C. Newell, councillor of the Atlanta chamber to the United States chamber, presented the referenda on competing forms of transportation.

Mar Goldstein introduced the subject of organized racketeering and crime, and urged that a national plan of attacking the problem be worked out.

Four elections to executive committee positions were declared as follows:

Seventh ward, J. T. Osburn; ninth ward, Fred P. Gibbs; tenth ward, B. E. Cook; thirteenth ward, Charles N. Walker.

A discrepancy in the fifth ward committee election was found in "B" precinct, and a committee from the executive committee and the Fulton county grand jury will check the box to determine whether J. Homer Leathers, elected on the face of returns, or Sebe Sharp, his opponent, received the most votes.

Councilman Bridges issued a statement thanking the voters for their support and pledging his best "services for the ward and the entire city."

Hailey said "More words fail to express my gratitude, but I shall earnestly endeavor to justify the faith shown in me."

Smith, who was second high vote getter for the tenth ward democratic executive committee post, expressed appreciation to those who supported him and pledged "my support to Mr. Cook."

U. S. WILL AID FIGHT ON MALARIA IN STATE

The Georgia relief commission Thursday was authorized by the federal emergency relief department to work with and help finance the state department of health's campaign to eliminate the breeding grounds of malaria-carrying mosquitoes. Miss Gay B. Shepperson, executive secretary of the commission, attending a relief conference in Richmond, received assurance that funds would be provided by the federal government providing men now on relief rolls would be given jobs in the campaign. Alan Johnstone, field representative of the federal relief department, said the work would be carried on in all southeastern states. Details of the program in Georgia are to be worked out by R. L. MacDougall, superintendent of work relief projects.

NRA COMPLIANCE PLANS COMPLETED

Board Ready To Handle Complaints Against At- lanta Violators.

Plans for handling complaints of violations of the NRA code and petitions for exceptions were completed Thursday afternoon at the organization meeting of the Atlanta NRA compliance board at the Chamber of Commerce building.

Lee Ashcraft, chairman, presided as details of the organization were worked out. Robert B. Troutman is secretary and other members are J.

P. Allen, Mrs. Oscar Palmour, who is president of the Federation of Women's Clubs; Ralph Boynton, Ferd M. Kaufman and J. A. Harper. Complaints against employers will be investigated by the board and an adjustment will be sought, according to a statement issued by Mr. Troutman following the private session. Complainants must make complaints in writing, sign their names and give their addresses. These names will be held in confidence by the board, he said.

If employers refuse to comply with the rules of the code, the board will refer the case to the district office of the department of commerce with its recommendations. Petitions for exceptions, as provided in Section 14 of the national recovery act, will be considered by the board and if the exception is agreeable to the members unanimously, it will be granted. Should there be dissension on any case, it will be referred to the department of commerce for final jurisdiction. These petitions must be written and witnessed by a notary

Redskins' Faces Red As Girl Archers Win

CHEROKEE, N. C., Oct. 5.—(AP) Maybe it's because the squaws and maidens have a feminist movement of their own, or maybe the Cherokee braves have become a little less skillful and a little less keen of vision since the advent of the pale-faces and their customs.

But the fact remains that the Cherokee warriors were a rather sheepish grin today. In the archery contests at the annual Cherokee fair yesterday a team composed of Indian girls won the matches, outscoring their nearest rivals, a team of men, by 100 points.

It was the first time the women had ever achieved such a feat.

LEAGUE WEIGHS CURRENCY ISSUE

Present Closed Systems of National Economies Are Assailed

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 5.—(AP)—There can be no lasting improvement in the world's economic situation, the economic and financial commission of the League of Nations assembly reported today, unless the countries are prepared to abandon "the system of closed national economies."

The report, which held the view that conditions are improved in a number of ways over the last year, urged a solution of the currency stabilization question so the world economic conference might reconvene with hopes of success.

These closed systems of national economy were described in the report as tending to become more gen-

ROBINSON OPPOSES MOVE FOR INFLATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, returned from Europe today on the liner Manhattan and issued a warning against currency inflation.

"Currency inflation as commonly proposed," the democratic floor leader said, "is dangerous and is likely to do more harm than good to the cause of national recovery."

The senator said that while he had gone abroad primarily for a rest, he had given a good deal of time to the study of monetary problems.

"The printing of money, avowedly for inflationary purposes, always has led to disaster," he said.

PROFIT IS DENIED BY BLACK DIAMOND

"Never Made a Dollar" Out of Ship Board Ves- sels, Dockendorff Says.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The senate committee investigating ship subventions was told today that the Black Diamond line "never made a dollar of profit" out of the operation of shipping board vessels.

Domme Dockendorff, president of the line, testified that any money made by his three firms was not earned by the Black Diamond while it operated shipping board vessels on commission.

"The shipping venture," the elderly ship owner said, "meant a loss of more than a million dollars and had it not been for the earnings of J. B. Dockendorff & Company (the import and export firm), and the Empire Stevedoring Company, we never would have made a dollar."

The import firm, Dockendorff said, accompanying his testimony with a balance sheet for the company, made a profit of $218,000 over the period 1920-1930, inclusive.

The books of the Empire Stevedoring Company, requested by the investigators, were reported missing yesterday when Chairman Black, of the committee, questioned Dockendorff about them.

Dockendorff, after a day and a half on the witness stand, was followed by the vice president of his company, J. Caldwell Jenkins.

Jenkins testified he had been connected with the shipping board and the Merchant Fleet Corporation for more than 13 years before assuming his post with the Black Diamond. Jenkins was identified by Dockendorff during the latter's testimony as the man referred to as "our friend" on the shipping board. This term, however, later was broadened by both Dockendorff and Jenkins to include not only Jenkins but T. V. O'Connor, then chairman of the shipping board.

Jenkins, discussing the affairs of the Black Diamond while he still was connected with the shipping board, said the line was in a "finny condition down there" at the board.

New York Firm Runs Big Liquor Ad Then Waits for Trouble With Law

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(P)—The first liquor advertisement addressed to the general public since prohibition was run in newspapers here today by Park & Tilford, and after it had appeared officers of the company sat down and waited for trouble.

"It is a violation of the law to run liquor advertising," said C. M. Storm, who prepared the advertisement. "The law expressly forbids the advertising of intoxicating liquors, but we took the matter up with the government of officials here and they agreed to the

Noted Radiologist Dies As Martyr to His Work

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Oct. 5. (P)—William Hope Fowler, a noted radiologist, died as a martyr to that science today at the age of 57. As a result of radiological work, in which he was a pioneer, he had to have two fingers amputated at different times and finally lost his right arm last June. King George conferred a commandship in the Victorian order on him at Buckingham palace last February.

advertisement. They said they are going to let the bars down, calling only for censorship of the advertising by the newspapers to which it is offered. We expect trouble and we expect to hear from the attorney-general's office."

Storm said that he already has scheduled eight more full pages, for publication in the near future, to offer Park & Tilford liquor to the general public in New York. He said the advertisements will be confined to this city because it is only here that the company has retail stores.

The advertisement, occupying a full page and headed "For delivery promptly if and when repeal comes," quoted Black and White Scotch whisky, Johnny Walker, and Haig and Haig at $25 a case of 12 bottles, plus $14.77 a case for import duties and federal taxes. House of Lords gin will be sold at $20 a case, with a similar tax. Martell 3-Star Cognac is quoted at $35 a case, with the same tax.

All the standbys of pre-prohibition days appear in the advertisement. There is Sloe-gin, liquor-cordials, Geneva gin, champagne, brandy-egg tonic and the best-known American and Canadian brands of rye and bourbon. Sixteen-year-old American whisky is priced at $68 for a case of 12 quarts, with a tax of only $3.30 because it is a native product.

The advertisement stresses the fact that the taxes quoted are "present" taxes, implying that there may be increases when repeal becomes effective.

Coincident with the announcement, 500 cases of 3-Star Hennessy arrived in New York on the liner Lafayette, in bond for a distributor. It was the first consignment to reach America in expectation of repeal. The brand came in under permits issued to meet needs of hospitals.

When Lily Pons, coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, returning from a vacation in France, learned that the cognac was on the foredeck of the Lafayette and that the arrival of the brandy was accepted as an indication that repeal would be a fact by Christmas, she sang three bars from her favorite aria. Then she went forward to view the consignment.

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(P)—Postoffice department officials said today no objection would be raised to newspapers publishing liquor advertisements if they made clear the product was not for sale until the eighteenth amendment is repealed. This is the same policy followed shortly before beer became legal. If liquor were offered for delivery before repeal, officials said, that undoubtedly would result in action.

TRIAL OF KELLYS SET FOR MONDAY

Court Hears Not Guilty Pleas and Orders Trial To Proceed.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 5.—(P)—George F. Barnes Jr., alias George "Machine Gun" Kelly, and his pretty wife, Kathryn Kelly, will go on trial in federal court Monday morning on charges of complicity in the plot to kidnap Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire.

Ripping aside technical barriers, Judge Edgar S. Vaughn heard the couple's attorneys enter pleas of not guilty at their arraignment today and ordered that the trial proceed "without further delay." Kelly's attorney, James H. Mathers, who represented Harvey Bailey, one of the seven persons convicted for the abduction last week, asked for a 24-hour delay before entering a plea. His request was denied but Mathers was allowed to file demurrers, which were overruled. Exceptions were allowed.

John Roberts, Enid attorney who represented Mrs. Kelly, told the court he had had little time to talk with his client, and asked more time to file demurrers and a motion for a change of venue.

Judge Vaughn denied a change of venue as well and then announced the trial would open as scheduled Monday.

HOT SOUPS FOR FALL SUPPERS

Soup May Be Used as an Appetizer, or to Form the "Piece De Resistance"

Accompaniments of All-Kind Appeal to the Eye and Tempt the Palate. A Variety of Vegetables and Attractive New Flavors Add Additional Food Value to the Lowly Soup Bowl.

A hot soup is especially good to serve on Sunday nights when appetites call for something stimulating yet not too filling or hard to digest. Not so many years ago most soups were made at home, and the stock pot was a familiar sight. It was kept on the stove day in and day out, and all leftovers found their way into it.

Nowadays there are many good canned soups available, even an old-fashioned meat-stock soup, ready for instant use upon heating thoroughly. Even so, the average home-maker ought to know something about the principles of soup making, so that she could utilize leftovers and vegetable juices to good advantage. A home-made soup which is lacking in strength or flavor may be nicely supplemented with a can of commercial soup or with a meat or vegetable extract.

Soups are of three varieties. In the first group belong all soups made from clear meat stock, including all kinds of consommés, broths, bouillons, brown and white soup stocks. In the second group we place the cream soups, purées and bisques. In the third group are the chowders and stews of vegetables, thickened or stock varieties.

The idea in using meats for soup stock is to extract all the flavoring elements as well as the nutrients from the meat itself. To accomplish this, we cut or chop the meat and crack the bones, cover with cold water and add salt. The mixture is brewed, or simmered, for two or three hours, to extract all of the good from the meat.

At the end of this time, the meat and bone is strained out and the result is the stock. If beef is used, the result is brown stock. If chicken or veal is used, the result is white stock. If fish is used, the result is fish stock.

The average stock should not be skimmed. The so-called "scum" is very valuable food, being the soluble proteins of the meat, similar in form and food value to the white of egg. However, for clear consommés and broths, this skimming process must take place.

Soup stocks may be seasoned and flavored as desired, by the use of various spices and combinations thereof. Spices, herbs and vegetables are used for this purpose. These are not added to the soup stock until the last half hour before it is done.

Cool the soup stock, whatever kind it is, very quickly. Quick cooling improves the flavor of the stock and improves its keeping qualities. Any fat that collects on the top of the stock during this cooling may be removed if desired, but it adds greatly to the flavor and food value of the soup to be made from it. If some of the fat is left, meat stock does not keep well under the best of conditions, and must be kept cold. If desired to keep it any length of time, it may be canned by processing it for three hours in the hot water bath, or 1-2 hours in pressure cooker at 15 pounds pressure.

Suitable Soup Garnishes. Soup should always be served with some sort of an accompaniment. Crisped crackers, cheese sticks, pulled bread, croutons, noodles, forcemeat balls, marrow balls, vegetable pastes, grated cheese, lemon slices, egg balls, dumplings and custard garnishes are all used for various kinds of soups.

quarts cold water, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 sliced carrot, 2 sliced onions, 4 stalks celery, 3 tablespoons barley soaked overnight.

Remove skin and fat from meat that has been wiped with a damp cloth. Cut meat into small pieces, put into kettle with carrot, onion and water. Heat gradually to boil, then simmer until meat is tender. Strain and remove fat. Reheat the stock to the boiling point, add the barley and cook until barley is soft. Use the meat for stews, croquettes, etc. Its flavor is restored by the addition of a little of the broth.

CHOWDER IS DELICIOUS AND ECONOMICAL TO MAKE.

If men are not always too enthusiastic about their food at home one of the reasons frequently is that some of their favorite dishes they get only in restaurants. Take chowders, for instance. What man doesn't like them, and how few ever get them at home, outside of New England and in one or two other coast cities. Many women also are fond of chowder, and in the better restaurants in such fashionable centers as Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore you will frequently observe a lady presaging her luncheon salad with a steaming, delicious-looking chowder.

But in the average home through the country chowder is a rarity. Yet they are simple to make, and they make the rest of a meal much simpler because they are almost a meal in themselves. If you wish to try them here are three suggestions: Clam, fish and vegetable, the latter being an unusual variation which you will find well worth sampling. Each of these new recipes can be made with canned foods if the fresh are not available, or even if they are. The vegetable chowder, with a pudding to follow, makes an excellent meal in itself, or it can fit into a hearty dinner menu.

Three-fourths cup canned corn, 1-2 cups canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 8 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1-2 teaspoon celery salt, 1-2 cups hot water, 1-2 cups evaporated milk, 1 cup crumbled flake soda crackers.

Turn corn, tomatoes, seasoning, parsley and hot water into a saucepan and boil gently 10 minutes. Then add canned milk and heat. Crumble crackers and stir into chowder. Serve with chopped parsley sprinkled over each portion. Six portions.

The fish chowder can be made at the last minute.

One quart boiling water, 1 cup flaked, cooked fish, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 can condensed tomato soup, 1 onion, minced; 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 cups crumbled flake soda crackers, 1 large can evaporated milk, 2 tablespoons parsley, chopped.

Into boiling water put fish, butter, soup, onion and salt. Boil gently 5 minutes. Add crumbled crackers and boil gently for 3 minutes. Add evaporated milk and bring to boil.

PHYSICIANS IN LAMAR ADOPT CASH SYSTEM

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Oct. 5.—Physicians of Lamar county Medical Society, have risen in revolt, and while working under the N.R.A. which has as its slogan "We Do Our Part," they have decided that for years they have been doing far more than their part, they will from now on do their part only.

A resolution adopted by the society at its meeting Wednesday afternoon in Barnesville requests each doctor to prepare a list of his non-paying patients, classifying them as follows:

(1) Professional deadbeats—persons who have no intention of paying for services when calling a doctor.

(2) Luxury deadbeats—persons who fail to pay off on account of installations on radios, autos and numerous other luxuries.

(3) Circumstantial defaulters—those who on account of adverse circumstances have been unable to pay, but have had the honesty to do whatever they could and have made explanations to their physician.

Realizing that the various relief organizations will take care of all worthy charity cases, the doctors pledged themselves to answer calls from those patients who come under classifications numbers 1 and 2 for only one.

Members of the medical society are Drs. D. W. Pritchett, president; J. A. Corry, vice president; J. M. Rogers, secretary; J. H. Jackson, C. H. Willis and S. B. Traylor.

NRA CHIEF COMMENTS ATLANTA FOR PARADE

Atlanta's NRA parade was so tremendous and magnificent that General Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, Thursday wired to Alderman Farris A. Mitchell, chairman of council's parade committee, his regrets that he was unable to attend the parade Wednesday. General Johnson congratulated Atlanta for its NRA spectacle.

"The spirit manifested by such demonstrations which are occurring all over the country is practical evidence of the American faith that brings success to a common cause," General Johnson said. "We all know the fine public spirit of the south and we all thank you for what you have done and what you are going to do."

U.S. Attorney, London Inquiry Scored in Nazi Arson Trial

LEIPZIG, Germany, Oct. 5.—(AP) Arthur Garfield Hays, the American attorney, was refused permission today to defend himself after broadsides had been leveled against him and the other members of what was termed the "scandal mongering" inquiry at London into the reichstag fire, for which five men are on trial here.

The Hays incident hinged upon a reputed interview with the Paris correspondent of the Russian newspaper Pravda, in which he was quoted as saying:

"The defense counsel in the Leipzig trial ought to seek to establish who the really guilty are and not only to unburden their defendants."

The interview was cited by Alfons Sack, defense attorney, who remarked soon after Hays entered the courtroom following a trip to Paris that "I regard it my duty to clear up the matter."

The court held a brief conference which resulted in the announcement that there was "no reason to hear Hays."

Hays was ready, however, Sack added to deny the truth of the interview. The court did not reply, but Attorney Seiffert, appointed to defend Marinus Van Der Lubbe, one of the five accused, broke in with: "It is my opinion that the committee was designed for political machinations against Germany."

(The findings of the unofficial London group said there were grave grounds for suspecting the reichstag blaze was set by, or on behalf of, leading personalities in the Nazi party.)

Sack mentioned earlier in the day that Hays had told him a student who closely resembled Van Der Lubbe had appeared at the London hearings and he had verified the fact through a photograph.

This assertion was made in substantiation of a contention of Ernest Torgler, the only German defendant, that perhaps the witnesses were mistaken in saying they saw him in a parliament building the day of the fire with Van Der Lubbe, who has confessed setting the fire.

It was revealed that Torgler had been shadowed by Nazis every step on the night of the reichstag blaze. In pursuing this line of questioning, Judge Buenger examined the witness so closely Torgler at length snapped:

"First you say it is incriminating that I seemed indifferent when I first heard the news that the reichstag was aflame, and then you say it is incriminating because later I seemed agitated."

The prosecution are known to be of great age geologically speaking. If we are ever able to draw any inference from distribution, then we must give the protozoa the place of the oldest of organisms, for they are known in every part of the world, and in many cases they are found where no other life exists. They are known in the polar oceans; they are abundant in tropical countries; they are important to us as food for larger forms of life in the seas and in fresh water. True cosmopolites they, at home anywhere. This great distribution can have come about only through a correspondingly great age.

The protozoa parasitize the intestinal tracts and blood streams of almost every sort of animal. There have been protozoa found parasitized with protozoa; paradoxical, seemingly, but true. The gnats, or sleeping sickness of Africa is caused by a protozoan, Trypanosoma gambiense, which is carried by a large fly, Glossina palpalis. Malaria is had this dread scourge of the big game belt. We are fortunate in having as few parasitic protozoa in Georgia as we have.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. The bile backs up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, assuring when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name "Carter's Little Liver Pills" on the red label. Remember a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

APPROVAL IS SEEN OF CANAL PROJECT

Benefits of Proposed $125,000,000 Plan Are Outlined by Woolford.

Encouragement over prospects of building out of federal public works funds, of a $125,000,000 ship canal across a tip of southeastern Georgia and northern Florida was expressed here Thursday by T. Guy Woolford, Atlanta business executive and chairman of the Atlantic ocean to Gulf of Mexico canal commission.

"We feel encouraged about the situation," Mr. Woolford said, commenting that the building of the canal would be "one of the greatest re-employment activities the government could sponsor," and that relief of unemployment was one of the major considerations in the public works program.

Plans Given Ickes. Detailed plans and specifications for the project have been submitted to Secretary Ickes, the federal public works administrator, and the proposal has been discussed with Mr. Ickes and with President Roosevelt and Secretary Roper, Mr. Woolford said.

"Experts estimate the canal would save $7,425,000 in freight costs in the first year of its operation, and $12,150,000 in the year 1945," he said. The first six months of the building of the canal would afford employment to 10,000 men, and the first year would see 20,000 to 25,000 men at work. Eighty-five per cent of the cost of the canal would go into labor.

The proposed canal would cut straight across the southeastern tip of the United States, and would save ships plying between the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic seaboard the long journey around the Florida peninsula.

The approximate distance from the east end of the canal to the Florida keys is 508 statute miles, and the canal would save "500 to 600 miles" to shipping, he said.

It would be 166 miles long, 200 feet wide at the bottom and 440 feet wide at the surface, and 38 feet deep. "The plans, as drawn by the W. S. Lee Engineering Corporation, would provide a canal large enough to accommodate virtually any ship in the world," Mr. Woolford said.

The plans, submitted in Washington, provide two routes from the Georgia coast to a point near Folkeston. One of them would run from St. Andrews Sound up the Satilla river via Woodbine and Owens ferry. The other would run from Cumberland sound up the St. Mary's river via King's Landing up to across Okefenokee swamp to a point near Fargo. The Okefenokee would serve as the summit water supply source.

Going across the southeastern tip of Georgia, the canal would cross the Suwannee river, and extend across Florida, via Jasper, Lee, San Pedro bay, to Lake Bird and out into the Gulf of Mexico north of the Ochlocknee river.

A canal in this area has been the dream of shipping men for many, many years. As early as 1826, a resolution pointed out the advantages of such a canal, and a survey was made in 1870 by army engineers, Mr. Woolford said.

The city's appreciation of the Pulitzer prize winner was evident as much in the warmth of the reception as in actual applause.

Richard B. Harrison, who gave his 1,301st performance as "the Lawd," Due Doe Green as "Gabriel," and Sallie Titt Whitney as "Noah," left very definite impressions of the genuine prototype of the negro as the south knows the race.

Ronoke found nothing of which to complain in the acting and, as for the spiritualists which gave the entire performance a rhythmic characteristic of unusual appeal, those at the Academy of Music last night found them superbly done.

The city last night saw, for the first time, an entire company of negro actors and actresses did not fail to voice their appreciation of the ability of the members of the cast.

FLORIDA HIGH COURT UPHOLDS LOAN BAN

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 5.—(P)—The state supreme court late today affirmed a circuit court injunction prohibiting the board of commissioners for state institutions from borrowing money from the federal emergency relief administration.

Circuit Judge J. B. Johnson last week enjoined the board from borrowing from the public works fund on the ground the state cannot pledge its credit.

Guy P. McCord, of Tallahassee, brought the action, contending the board was about to complete plans for a loan of at least $500,000 for the construction of a female ward building at the state prison and at the state hospital for the insane.

Mrs. Morris Will Resume Her Lecture Series on Books

Mrs. Emma Garrett Morris, Atlanta literary leader, will reopen her lecture series on modern authors in Rich's bookshop Tuesday morning, October 10, at 10 o'clock. "Anthony Adverse," by Hervey Allen, will be the first subject.

This series, known as "Half Hours With Modern Writers," will again be sponsored by the literary division of the fine arts department of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. James R. Little, chairman of the department, Miss Jessie Hopkins, chairman of the literary division, and Mrs. Oscar Palmour, president of the federation, were all enthusiastic when interviewed about the forthcoming lectures.

"We clubwomen consider these lectures, offered the public free of charge by Rich's bookshop, one of the finest cultural influences in Atlanta," said Mrs. Little, in talking with Mrs. Ruth Hiram Carter, manager of the bookshop. "It is a pleasure and a privilege to sponsor and offer our support, as an organization, to this splendid lecture series."

Mrs. Morris, for many years president of the Atlanta Drama League, is a graduate of Vassar College, and has done post-graduate work in Oxford, England, and at Columbia University. She is known throughout this section of the country as a brilliant speaker and keen critic, with a sympathetic understanding of her subject. The Tuesday morning lectures at Rich's bookshop last year were among the most popular weekly events of Atlanta's literary circles, and eager inquiries have been received by the bookshop regarding the reopening of the lecture course this fall.

The lectures will begin promptly at 10 o'clock, and last 30 minutes. The October series will feature recent outstanding books, as follows: October 10, "Anthony Adverse," by Hervey Allen; October 17, "The House of Exile," by Nora Waln; October 24, "Little Man What Now," by Hans Fallada; October 31, "Vandessa," the last of the Rogue Herries series, by Hugh Walpole. These informal talks are open to the public without charge, and a cordial invitation is extended everyone interested to attend.

OLD CARS ELIGIBLE IN PRIZE CONTEST

Believing that the $3 tag license tax in Georgia has brought out many ancient cars, Loew's Grand theater and The Constitution are offering four prizes totaling $25—one $10 first prize and three $5 prizes—for the oldest cars in the state capable of being driven under their own power to Loew's Grand theater between the hours of 9 and 11 o'clock this morning.

This offer is in connection with the showing of "The Bowery," the anniversary picture offering at that theater beginning today, which features Wallace Beery, Jackie Cooper and George Raft, the time of which is the latter eighties and the early nineties of the last century. Of course, no automobile can be as old as that, but there are many ancient cars still able to be moved around under their own power.

The oldest car to report to the theater, where the serial number, the only evidence of age, will be taken and then driven to The Constitution office for a photograph, will be awarded the first prize and the next three oldest will be given $5 each.

Only one stipulation must be met and that is that a sign reading "The Bowery; Grand Theater," must be on the machine. Is your car capable of competing?

ANTI-USURY PETITION ATTACKED BY CITIZEN

Application for a charter as the Georgia Anti-Usury Association, filed in Fulton superior court recently by A. J. Hartley and B. E. Thomas, attorneys, and C. J. Sutherland, an incorporator, Thursday met with objections on the part of C. A. Pounds, a citizen and taxpayer, who attacked the petition on the ground that a proposal to "interchange ideas on usury" amounts to the practice of law by a corporation in alleged violation of statutes. Pounds also contended that the association's proposal to promote the anti-usury legislation would be equivalent to lobbying in the state legislature. Attorney Noah J. Stone represents Pounds.

Business in Nation Is Improving, NRA Working, Gov. Black Says

Business on a national scale has vastly improved as the result of a more optimistic attitude of the people and of the national recovery act, Governor Black, governor of the federal reserve system, said in Atlanta Thursday night.

Governor Black arrived Thursday afternoon from Highlands, N. C., where he spent the last week vacationing. He plans to return to Washington in a few days.

"Things are looking good in Washington and over the country as a whole," Mr. Black said. "Departments of the government in the capital are co-ordinated to a remarkable degree and the business of the government is moving smoothly. I am sure that the NRA is doing its part in bringing back prosperity. Mr. Black several months ago predicted a sharp upturn in conditions and his statements Thursday showed that in his opinion his prediction has proved true. As the head of the federal reserve system he is in constant touch with the vital banks and businesses in every section of the United States.

The depression has been whipped and beaten by the NRA and what it stands for—a confidence in the people that business is improving and that jobs are being created and money is being made and spent, adding impetus to the wheel of industry, according to Mr. Black.

The banker is visiting at his Atlanta home on Peachtree road and tonight will be the honor guest at a dinner given by John K. Otley, president of the First National bank, to which prominent Atlantans have been invited.

U. OF N. C. FIGHTS SUIT FOR FUND TRANSFER

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Attorney-General Dennis G. Brummitt, of North Carolina, conferred today with George Gordon Battle, attorney for the University of North Carolina, concerning a suit to take $75,000 a year from the university and apply it for benefit of the Florida East Coast railroad.

The money is given by the Henry M. Flagler estate. Suit was instituted in New York state court more than a year ago by Scott M. Loftin, receiver of the Florida East Coast railroad. Battle said, but has not reached trial. A hearing is expected several months from now, he said.

Attorney-General Brummitt met with Battle to discuss the case and plan to prevent the money being taken from the university.

RETAILERS ASSAILED FOR PRICE MARK-UPS

Peek Charges Merchants Erroneously Using Process Tax To Hike Prices.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—George N. Peek, farm administrator, said today the cotton processing tax of 4.2 cents a pound is being erroneously employed by retailers as an excuse for "large markups in prices of retail cotton goods."

He announced that a nation-wide inquiry is being made into retail sales practices in connection with complaints that consumers are being told the processing tax alone is responsible for price boosts. Peek said they are attributable only in small part to the levy.

As the first step in fixing responsibility for what he described as "unfair tactics," he called a conference for October 11 of local store executives to discuss "the practice of sales forces in attributing large markups to the processing tax alone."

Peek said if investigations now under way in other cities warrant it, a conference of representative retail store executives from various parts of the country would be called to determine on what basis in fact their sales forces are explaining the increased retail cotton goods prices as caused primarily by the tax.

The consumers' counsel for the farm adjustment administration, Dr. Fred C. Howe, is directing the investigation into costs. Investigators, he said, have found in many instances increases in prices several times larger than the tax have been attributed to the processing tax and that as a result "consumers are being misinformed."

Sister to Accompany Lindberghs to U. S.

ST. BRIDE'S-SUPER-ELY, Wales, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here this afternoon for a visit at the home of her sister, Mrs.

Aubrey Morgan. Colonel Lindbergh was expected later.

It was expected here the American couple, who flew yesterday from Stranraer, Norway, to Southampton, England, would return to the United States by ship in a week or two with Mrs. Morgan, who has been ill. Neighbors of Mrs. Morgan in this little village near Cardiff reported she was going to California for her health.

It was considered likely Mr. Morgan would leave his Cardiff business at least long enough to make the trip to the United States with his wife.

That is why Teethina gives such quick and remarkable relief in constipation, gas, indigestion, occasional diarrhoea and intestinal colic. Teethina contains no opiates and can be had at any drug store for only 30c.—(adv.)

New Trial of Poole Set for November 13

The retrial of A. Douglas Poole, former Atlanta policeman and a son of Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole, on charges of murder growing out of an automobile crash near Adel, Ga., on February of last year has been set for November 13, J. K. Sinclair, clerk of the Cook superior court, announced Thursday. The trial will be at Adel.

Young Poole was indicted for murder in connection with the death of Miss Winona Patterson, of Alamo, and Joe R. Pafford, of Lakeland, while riding in a car driven by E. D. Rivers Jr., also of Lakeland, son of the speaker of the Georgia house of representatives, when it collided with a car driven by Poole. He was tried in March of last year and convicted of involuntary manslaughter and sentenced to serve from two to three years but the court of appeals recently set the verdict aside and ordered a retrial in the case.

Poole has been at liberty under bond.

KEY VETOES MEASURE CHANGING COMMITTEES

Mayor James L. Key Thursday vetoed a council ordinance which would have restricted chief executives in selection of committee members and which also would have increased membership of all major council committees to 13 members.

Key assigned as his reasons the present restricted power of the mayor and the fact that in his opinion increase in the size of the committees would not react to the best interests of the city.

"I HOPE other countries will enter the Harmsworth competition next year. I'd like to ride in that race—win, lose or draw—with 5 or 6 foreign racing boats competing. I'd love that kind of a race—and I have every confidence in the ingenuity of American industry to meet such a challenge."

Gar Wood

Gar Wood won this year by keeping Miss America X out front from start to finish. Texaco was with him then, as it was last year when he set the world's speedboat record. As far back as 1916 he used Texaco Products when his Miss Detroit II won the Gold Cup, the Mississippi Valley Championship, the Thousand Islands Championship, and set the mile speed record.

Gar Wood pays this fine tribute to Texaco Products: "We had plenty of reserve for a closer race, the motor's performing perfectly—thanks again to Texaco."

She was a pathetic little figure, game to the very last despite her own weakened condition, caused by the recent birth of her third child.

Children Present.
Her older children, W. L., aged 6, and little Mary Virginia, aged 4, were there with their mother.
Equally brave but more visibly shaken were Pa and Ma Stribling, the boxer's parents, and Herbert, the younger brother. They wept intermittently while trying to soothe his apologetic W. L., who began crying while the service was being read.

Many relatives of the family from over the country were present at the funeral.
Dr. J. E. Sammons, pastor of the Vineville Baptist church and a close personal friend of the fighter, delivered the eulogy at the auditorium during which he referred to Stribling as "the finest specimen of young manhood who has appeared on the streets of this or any other city."
"An ambitious youth who sought to scale the loftiest peaks and fell by the wayside," he said.

"He died climbing," the minister, Dr. Sammons, quoted the twenty-third psalm, part of the twenty-seventh and also the first and fourth verses from the fourteenth chapter of John to begin his sermon. He spoke of Stribling as a Christian boy, who was true to his friends and maintained a steady devotion and obedience to his family.

"Among all the passages about which I can think at this moment, I can think of none that was more nearly personified in the habits and ideals of Young Stribling than the one that has come down to us from the fertile brain of the world's wisest man, written thousands of years ago. It is this from Proverbs 20-25: 'The glory of young men is their strength.' 'Naturally our first thought is of physical strength. Perhaps no finer specimen of the streets of this or any other city than was Young Stribling. As he passed his fine physique and his cordial greeting and his characteristic smile attracted the attention of every one, I believe I speak the truth, however, when I declare that physical strength was not his chief glory, but rather was his strength of character, as illustrated in his dealings with men in all walks of life.'"

An auditorium packed to capacity and including an entire section filled with negroes heard Dr. Sammons' sermon. It was inaugurated with an organ solo by Crockett Odum, followed by two quartet selections by Ed and Harry Hamilton, Sam Grant and Ed Flanders. They opened with "Some Day, Somehow, We'll Understand." Dr. W. R. Mackay, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, said the prayer at the auditorium and later at the graveside.

Before the service began, members of the American Legion in parade dress marched down to the pier and placed two flags at each end of the casket. Then members of the Shrine, of which Stribling was a member, filed in and took their seats, followed by the pallbearers.

The gray metal casket lay against a solid background of flowers sent from all parts of the world. It was a magnificent floral display.
Pallbearers were nine young men, all friends, Vernon Skinner, Malcolm Green, C. D. Robertson, B. Sanders Walker, Bob Gamble, Peyton Jones, Terrell Weaver, O. B. Newman and Robert Kingman. Ushers were Harry Chapman, Dana Adams, Frank Stegar, Roe Stamps, Roy Williams, Adolph Stewart, Don Bryan, Roland Neal and Lincoln McConnell.

The Floyd Rifles attended in a body and fired the salute by the grave. They were in command of D. C. Harris.

Following the auditorium service, the long cavalcade to the Riverside cemetery was immediately begun.

ALLEGED KIDNAPERS
ON TRIAL AT BUTLER

BUTLER, Ga., Oct. 5.—(P)—A story of an alleged kidnaping and an attempt to force him to buy machinery was told today by L. W. Brown, a prominent American, Ga., businessman, in the trial of C. L. Davis and W. B. Davis.
The state had practically completed its case late today and announced it would rest after one more witness is heard tomorrow.

Brown told the court he met W. B. Davis, at Butler on September 25 by appointment and was later intercepted by C. L. Davis, a few miles north of here and that the latter forced him at pistol point to drive to Macon where he was taken to the Citizens & Southern National Bank.

There, Brown testified, Davis demanded he draw a draft on his firm in America for $12,000, less 5 per cent cash discount, for some machinery which Davis said he would deliver later.

Brown said he escaped after leaving the bank and notified police. P. G. Blitch, cashier of the bank, testified he became suspicious when Brown presented a piece of paper with the draft on which was written "I am kidnapped, help. This man is heavily armed."

James Mitchell, filling station operator between Butler and Macon, said Brown and Davis stopped at his place and Brown leaped from the car and pleaded for assistance. He was forced to go on.
Other state witnesses included Sheriff R. P. McAffin, of Taylor county; Roy Busbee, of Americus, and O. L. Harris, deputy sheriff of Bibb county.

At the beginning of the trial the prosecuting attorney said C. L. Davis was the "brains" of the alleged kidnaping but that W. B. Davis was to receive $2,000 for his part.

A full courtroom heard the witnesses today.

$200,000 EXPENDED
BY BERRY SCHOOLS

Report Shows Many Unemployed Aided by Relief Work.

MOUNT BERRY, Ga., Oct. 5.—Expenditures of nearly $200,000 in Rome and Georgia by the Berry schools for the first three quarters of the year 1933 were revealed in figures issued today at the office of E. H. Hoge, comptroller of the schools. Hundreds of unemployed persons in the county were given work by the schools in their relief activities during the past winter and summer months. It was disclosed by the pay rolls of the schools. During the summer alone more than 400 persons were kept busy at all times, more than 100 of these being employees living in the county, but outside of Berry schools.

Payment of its annual taxes to Floyd county of nearly $5,000 placed Berry schools as usual among the top half dozen taxpayers of Rome and vicinity, only the railroads and three mill villages paying more taxes than the Berry schools, which are educating 1,100 students this year without expense to the taxpayers of the south.

SOLONS EXPLORE NEW STOCK MAZES

Inter-Company Dealings in Investment Trusts Are Disclosed.

By DON J. KIRKLEY.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Avenues through which directors of two investment trusts could sell these agencies' stocks of other companies in which they were interested were explored today by the senate banking committee.

At noon, however, Chairman Fletcher, democrat, Florida, with a jovial smile, recessed the hearing until tomorrow to allow Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, spectators, witnesses and newspapermen to see the third game of the World Series.

During the two-hour session of the committee, Pecora pressed the examination of partners and affiliates of Dillon, Read & Company, organizers of the investment trusts.

Other Affiliations.
In his questioning of these officials, he developed that some of the directors of the United States and Foreign and the United States and International Securities corporations were directors of other companies with stocks to sell.

E. B. Tracy, the gray-haired president of both the investment trusts, told the committee the trusts bought between them 44,000 shares of Associated Gas and Electric stock which he recommended, and that he was a director of the latter.

Pecora also brought out more about the profits made by Dillon, Read partners through sale of common stock of the United States and Foreign. The firm obtained the stock for 20 cents a share and sold it for an average of $53.

RENEE ADOREE DIES AT CALIFORNIA RESORT

Chronic Respiratory Ailment Is Fatal to Former Movie Star.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Renee Adoree, French actress, died today of a chronic respiratory ailment that cut short her film career three years ago after she had reached stardom.

The actress, born in Lille, France, in a circus tent 31 years ago, rose from the obscurity of her father's traveling troupe to the screen pinnacle.

As capable in dancing on a stage as she was performing in a circus trapeze or riding bareback in the ring under the big top, Miss Adoree came to America shortly after the war and launched on a film career with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. For them she made her greatest picture, "The Big Parade," opposite John Gilbert in a portrayal regarded as one of the classics of silent pictures.

She was twice married and divorced. Tom Moore, screen actor, was her first husband, whom she divorced in 1925. She then married William Sherman Gill, a non-professional, and later divorced him in 1929.

Reviewing the Shows

'The Bowery' Feature of Program For Anniversary Week at Grand

"The Bowery," featuring Wallace Beery, Jackie Cooper (stars of "The Champ"), George Raft, Fay Wray and Pert Kelton, opens a week's engagement at Loew's Grand theater today, as the first anniversary of offering of that popular house, together with an excellent surrounding program of short subjects and the Metronews.

"The Bowery" is the first release of Darryl Zanuck's Twentieth Century company and is one of the best moving picture comedies of the season, telling a story of the happy-go-lucky days of the famous New York East Side during "the days of the twenties and thirties." It is a story which takes its place as entertainment and fact woven into film action as perfect as it is absorbing. In its action it shows the rivalry of Chuck Connors (Beery) and Steve Brodie (Raft) for the leadership of the district. It shows the debut of John L. Sullivan, the famous jump off Brooklyn bridge by Steve Brodie, the hatchet throw of Carrie Nation in her saloon-wrecking crusade, and the famous Bowery fighting dens of the volunteer fire departments headed by Raft and Beery.

A pleasing love story involves Fay Wray and Raft and Pert Kelton plays the part of a Bowery harrier, loud and sporty. The picture starts on a note of riot between the fire companies, each trying to reach a fire plug ahead of the other to quell a fire, and closes on the two rivals marching to the Spanish-American War, the one with Fay Wray's kiss on his lips and the other with her kiss on his cheek.

'My Weakness' Stars Lillian Harvey at Fox

Lillian Harvey, the dainty little star of many European screen hits, makes her debut in a Hollywood production in "My Weakness," which is the feature attraction on the new program opening today at the Fox theater. Supporting the little blond star is Lew Ayres and a cast remarkable throughout for its comedy and beauty.

Charles Butterworth, Harry Langdon, Henry Travers and Sid Silver provide the fun, while a group of eight girls, concededly the most beautiful in all Hollywood, play important parts in the picture and add their pulchritude to its lure.

The story centers upon an attempt by Lew Ayres to take a rich and dirty little hotel maid and transform her into the type of idle charmer who can win any man she wants into matrimony. Lillian Harvey is the slave and Charles Butterworth the matrimonial victim. Of course, Lillian triumphs, but finds that, after all, Charles is not her type for a husband and that it was Lew she desired all along. So the story takes a new turn and provides many smart and original moments before the satisfactory conclusion.

Harry Langdon plays "Cupid," while a group of mallet ornaments and statuettes have a strikingly original song sequence.

There are three clever song hits in the picture, which is a Buddy de la Hoya production directed by David Butler. The songs are "Gather 'Round While You May," "Be Careful" and "How Do I Look?"

The picture is presented in a program with another special organologic arrangement while the latest newsreel flashes and clever cartoon, comedy, etc., are found on the important short subject section of the program.

Labor Strike Halts Work on Postoffice

Construction work on the Atlanta postoffice building was at a virtual standstill Thursday while various building crafts called a strike while they argued as to which one should complete work on the steel conveyors.

Millwrights, a branch of the carpenters' union, have been working on them for almost eight months. It was announced by representatives of the Great Lakes Construction Company, contractors on the new structure, and steel workers, sheet metal workers, painters, plumbers, and other trades engaged in work walked off the job at noon Thursday.

A final inspection of the building had been asked for October 15, but the date may be deferred unless the dispute between the crafts is adjusted immediately.

ATLANTA NEAR LEAD IN AIR TREASURE RACE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Landing almost simultaneously at the airport here late this afternoon, P. J. Sones, of Haines City, Fla., and Miss Helen MacCloskey, of Pittsburgh, Pa., paced a fleet of 45 planes to end the sixth lap of the St. Louis-New York aerial treasure hunt, which will end tomorrow afternoon at Roosevelt field.

Sones increased his lead to 300 points, far ahead of his nearest rival, Miss MacCloskey, although first to land, was fourth to fly over the letter, increasing her score to more than 100 points.

The first four fliers to locate the sign were Sones, F. L. Hunt, of Atlanta, Ga.; Davis N. Lutz, of Chicago, Ill., and Miss MacCloskey.

Report Again Is Heard That Fawcett Lives

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Reports were received again today that the British explorer, Colonel H. P. Fawcett, and his son, who have been missing eight years, are alive in the jungle.

A dispatch from Cuyana, Mato Grosso, to the newspaper A Noite, quoted Arao Benerra, a planter in Paranaatinga, as saying that an Indian woman told him two white men were being held prisoners by Guicuru Indians in the Xingu district, a 45-day journey from Paranaatinga.

Similar previous reports have not been confirmed.

ana Kingfish" issued statements in behalf of himself, Governor O. K. Allen and the Louisiana tax reform commission, and said a complete tax relief program had been worked out.

This program, he said, would be based on new taxes "on certain large corporate interests and special interests which heretofore have escaped taxation." He said proceeds would be used to relieve small home owners and promised to disclose all details in a bandwagon and sound-truck tour of the state "within the next 15 days."

Although Governor Allen continued his silence on the proposed legislative sitting, Senator Long said in one of his statements that "Governor Allen has announced he will call a special session of the legislature to vote on the program."

Long today recanted yesterday's denials of negotiations with the tax reform commission, which has been demanding a special session for months, apologized to the commission for recent criticism appearing in his newspaper, and said that he, Allen and the commission had "reached an agreement on tax relief."

This Year's Circus Is Featured By Stunning Women Artists

Jennie Rooney, one of several beautiful young women who will feature the performances of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus next Monday at the Highland avenue show grounds.

Characterized as one of the most daring and graceful of aerial performers, as well as being "the prettiest girl of the circus," Jennie Rooney is one of the featured performers with the great Ringling and Barnum and Bailey circus, whose stupendous array of cyclonic performers and "ain't no such animals" will show their wares at two performances Monday beneath the "big top" raised at the Highland avenue show grounds, when the golden jubilee program of the "greatest show on earth" will be revealed to pop-eyed urchins and their elders.

Aside from being the "greatest show on earth," this year's circus is pronounced the "greatest show on earth," and while the circus, unlike the musical revues and many of the stage shows, does not demand pulchritude in its women performers, nevertheless, it has its beauties and they are no faint stars, either.

Dorothy Herbert, indisputably the greatest living mistress of the art of haute école, golden-haired and of impeccable figure, is exceedingly easy on the eyes, while of the exotic type of beauty the circus offers the stunning Reifenech sisters, Rose, Mitz and Berrie, Hungarian equestriennes. And no mention of the pretty girls of the circus would be complete without including the Belgian De Long sisters, equilibrists; Ann Pickels, a demure southern miss from Knoxville, expert high school rider, and Lueta Leers, daring mid-air performer.

As for Jennie Rooney, without the use of the acrobatic masera, her eyes take on a sort of dissolving glance that makes every man who witnesses her madcap aerial stunts vow he'll be the first to rush to render first aid should she fall—only she doesn't.

This year's circus has been devised to confound the blasé person who has "seen it all," and new features are promised to be as numerous as reported fiancées of the Prince of Wales.

COOKING ALCOHOL FOR AILING FEET LANDS MAN IN JAIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Things were pretty serene in the Faulhammer household until the gas bill came.

Mrs. Anna Faulhammer went to the police station.

"Please, Sergeant," she said, "can't you do something about my gas bill?" "Lady," replied the sergeant, "we all have gas bills of our own. Now—"

"But my husband. He uses all the gas and now he won't pay for it. Can't you do something?" The police obliged by going around to the Faulhammer household where they found the husband, John, busy at the kitchen stove with what appeared to be a very much like a still.

"Yes," John explained, "I'm making alcohol. You see my feet are in very bad condition and the only relief

I get is to bathe them in alcohol." "Oh, yeah?" said the cops and took him before a United States commissioner. That gentleman prescribed complete rest for John's feet, so they left him reclining in a cell to await a hearing October 11.

BORAH FAILS TO SEE HELP IN CANCELLATION

Declares Erasing of War
Debts Would Not Aid
World Recovery.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(UP)—Full cancellation of international debts would have only a slight effect on the general economic situation, Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, said today in a statement telegraphed to the British United Press from Boise.

"I do not know the scope of debt negotiations," the senator said, "but if the negotiations are confined solely to debts there is but little to negotiate."

"We have already negotiated, reduced, adjusted and settled these debts and certainly that settlement was sufficiently liberal. On the other hand if debts are to be considered as one of the international problems standing in the way of world recovery, such as the money question, tariff and disarmament, the situation would take on a different aspect."

"It is claimed that debts stand in the way of world recovery. I venture to say that if the debts were cancelled in full and the other financial and economic problems left unsolved, the change for the better would be slight indeed."

"If we are to reduce or cancel these debts it must be because it would be in the interest of the people of the United States to do so and there can be no such interest if these other financial and economic questions are unsolved."

DEATH OF NOVELIST HELD ACCIDENTAL

BATH, England, Oct. 5.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict that Mrs. A. M. Williamson, Virginia-born novelist, who was found dying in a hotel here September 23, succumbed to poison administered accidentally by herself.

A physician who failed in an attempt to revive Mrs. Williamson, widow of the noted British novelist and collaborator in his work, said she apparently had taken an overdose of a sleeping potion.

Nearly 4,000 Join Dog Club; Lists Close Saturday Night

By THE DOG EDITOR.

Hundreds of applications for membership in the Constitution's Dog Lovers' Club and dozens of entries in the five contests held in connection with National Dog Week, Thursday brought the total membership in the dog club to nearly 4,000 and the poems, limericks, photographs, news stories and hero entries brought the total number of competitors above the 100 mark.

Only two days remain and contestants for 17 beautiful prizes must get their entries into the hands of the Dog Editor by midnight Saturday or into the mails by that time. Postively no membership in the dog club will be given nor will entries in the contest be received after midnight Saturday.

Seldom has any event so interested the children of Atlanta as has the Dog Lovers' Club and never before have contests with dogs as the theme attracted the attention of so many grownups and children. All day Thursday the desk of the dog editor was piled high with applications and a corps of stenographers were kept busy filling out the membership cards.

The celebration of the week—reaching a higher pitch than had been expected—will reach its climax at 11 o'clock Saturday morning when a special showing of two dog pictures will be given at the Fox theater. All members of the Dog Lovers' Club will be admitted free upon presentation of the membership card.

Included in the membership in the club are children from more than 30 schools in the city and county, several teachers called at the offices of

The Constitution Thursday to express their approval of the observance and to describe the "tremendous interest" manifested by the children. Many children, they said, have made scrapbooks of the news stories and pictures printed in the newspaper.

"I feel," said one teacher, "that nothing has before been done in Atlanta which so impressively teaches children their duty and obligation to their pets."

In order to express appreciation for the interest taken by the Constitution, the Atlanta Humane Society Thursday added another prize to the impressive list. A good dog will be given in the poetry contest for children under 16 years of age, with the winner of first prize having the choice between the dog and the two books already announced for the winner. Second prize winner will receive the prize left by the first.

Co-operating with the Fox theater and The Constitution are the following Atlanta organizations and firms who offered prizes: The Atlanta Veterinary Society, Walthour & Hood, Schneider & Son, Walthour & Hood, Trammell Scott Company, H. G. Hastings & Co., Miller's Book store and Davison-Paxon Company.

Contests for best pictures of dogs by amateur photographers, news stories, limericks and the dog hero competition are open to persons of all ages. The poetry contest and dog limericks club are restricted to children under 16 years of age.

Only two days remain for entries in the contests and those who want to participate are urged to rush their entries.

Cuba Is Recognized By Uruguay, Panama

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 5.—(UP)—

The department of state announced today that Uruguay and Panama had recognized the revolutionary government of President Ramon Grau San Martin.

The announcement was regarded generally as strengthening the position of the Grau regime, now in the fourth week of its precarious existence.

United States Ambassador Sumner Welles was noncommittal on what attitude Washington might be expected to take. It was recalled that the United States offered almost immediate recognition to the provisional administration set up in August by Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, succeeding the ousted government of Gerardo Machado, now in exile in Canada.

Heavy police guards were placed around the bank after the manager of the local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia informed police he had been advised of a plot to bomb his institution.

An extra heavy guard scrutinized all packages carried by persons entering the Nova Scotia bank. Manager Manuel Betancourt made the report to the police which resulted in general precautions.

Except for a reported revolt in Camaguey province, advice trickling into the capital tonight through storm-crippled communications indicated an otherwise generally quiet situation throughout the island.

EFFORT TO SCAR WARBURTON FACE LAID TO WRITER

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—(UP)—

Standing on the advice of his counsel, Sidney Bartlett, screen writer and fiancée of blond Alice White, of the films, declined to testify today at a grand jury investigation of an alleged plot to disfigure John Warburton, handsome actor.

Explaining his refusal, Bartlett said: "My attorney and I plan to conduct an independent investigation of the attack on Warburton and, until that is concluded, I prefer to make no statements concerning the matter."

Miss White, petite star, before entering the jury room, said her attorney had advised her to answer all questions. She said she would deny any knowledge of the beating administered to Warburton after he was robbed. Two men, Russell Brown and Martin Block, are held by police as suspects in the robbery.

Warburton said he told the grand jury the story of the robbery and identified Brown as the man who struck him in the face after he had been robbed of $25 by two holdups. He said he was unable to identify Block, Brown, standing on his constitutional rights, declined to testify. Grand jurors at the investigation of authorities, who said Block and Brown made statements, saying their attack on Warburton was intended as revenge for a blow Warburton was alleged to have struck Miss White.

7 Prisoners Fight Buchanan Jail Fire

BUCHANAN, Ga., Oct. 5.—Seven

white prisoners were liberated from the Buchanan county jail here shortly before midnight tonight after one of the prisoners discovered fire between the ceiling and roof. The men aided Sheriff L. J. White in taking furnishings from the two-story building before the fire, whipped by a strong wind, had caused damage estimated at $10,000.

Origin of the fire was not immediately determined. One of the prisoners said he was suddenly feeling "very warm." He glanced at the ceiling and saw a flame. Responding to an alarm, Sheriff White, who resides on the first floor, immediately turned the men out.

Quick action on the part of the men and townspeople prevented the flames from spreading to surrounding buildings despite the wind.

Sheriff Wilson said he would take the seven prisoners, all of whom were sentenced on convictions on misdemeanor charges, to Cedartown jail, 16 miles north of here.

MYSTERY DUELIST STANDS CONVICTED OF ACCEPTING DEFINITION

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 5.—(UP)—

So far as Asheville police court is concerned, the mystery story of fighting a duel with a gallant stranger on the Beaver Lake golf course here is true.

After hearing police recount the story of the duel told them by Moody, a 22-year-old filling station operator, when he was found wounded September 12, Judge Sam M. Cathey today found him guilty of accepting a challenge.

Moody's story, which created a sensation here at the time, was that a stranger warned him not to pay attention to a girl here. (Her name was not disclosed, but police said she was not acquainted with Moody's story.) They engaged in a fight and two weeks later when they met again the stranger suggested they go to the golf course and settle their difficulties.

At the golf course, Moody said, the stranger found Moody had only two cartridges for his pistol and threw away all but two of his. They stepped 20 yards and fired, each shooting twice. Moody was wounded in the left side.

Police conducted a search for the mysterious man Moody said fought the duel with him, but never found any trace of such a person.

Floral Collection Features Tea Given by Civic Club Division

The flower tea given by the garden division of the Civic Club of West End at the clubhouse Wednesday was featured by a fine collection of flower-ers ranging from the daintiest, smallest blossoms, to large, handsome dahlias, with a rare display of foliage plants.

A new fall iris, the Elizabeth Lamb, grown by Mrs. Gus Howard, developed from seed by Mrs. Walter R. Lamb, created special interest. Mrs. W. L. Letta's display of Tibbiths, a new annual of rich orange color, and the vase of rare Guernsey lilies, contributed by Mrs. L. A. Hollingsworth, also attracted attention.

In one of the clubrooms, tables were set for different occasions by members of the garden division, each unique in its attractiveness and individuality. A small table and chair set by Mrs. Hinton Blackshear, was decorated with black elephants, individual service for child, with two tiny vases of flowers. Mrs. L. A. Hollingsworth, chairman of the garden division, arranged a convalescent's table, with wicker service tray, small vase of flowers in pastel shades, pen, stationery, books, magazines and a cheerful greeting card.

A cheerful and restful scene was the porch table presented by Mrs. J. P. Oliver, the solitary decoration being a beautiful water hyacinth in a green bowl set on a table covered with a green oilcloth. Mrs. Adeline Ford's "tea for two" was attractive with Madeira cloth and napkins, white and gold china, silver goblets, individual plates of tempting cookies. The centerpiece, a pink bowl of pink snapdragons. The Italian terrazzo inlaid marble coffee table, set for three, with an attractive design of green and ivory china, Italian embroidered napkins, with handsome Italian vase filled with dahlias, snapdragons and verbenas. Appealing to men was the "Master's Table," set by Mrs. Hugh Mason, with tapestry cover in warm colors. A can of tobacco, pipe, matches, a wine set, deck of cards, newspaper, magazine and a pottery vase of pompom dahlias, were other details of decoration. Mrs. W. R. Lamb's formal tea table was lovely with its dainty grass cloth cover. Silver basket of pink roses, pink snapdragons and blue salvia pitcher, and silver candlesticks with pink tapers. Hand-embossed baskets filled with mints daintily embossed with pink roses, graced each corner of the table. The baskets and mints were made by Mrs. Sterling Price.

In the rear of the display room tea was served from a table with a filet lace cover over green, and a centerpiece of pink roses. Presiding were Mesdames David Cogswell Jr. and Clay Sybert and Miss Amy Witherspoon. In the evening Mrs. Ross Howard and Miss Catherine Howard served at the refreshment table.

Smith College Club.

The Atlanta Smith College Club met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Roger Whittier, at Chattahoochee. Mrs. Ira Rader, who had attended her class reunion at Smith College, in June, presented a vivid picture of the college today as well as the various activities at commencement. To members so far removed in time and location from their alma mater this account proved most interesting.

Discussion of plans for the year was presented by Mrs. Frank New, chairman of the program committee. It was decided to devote the year to a study of American history from the modern point of view, reviewing such books as James Truslow Adams' "Epic of America," Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln," Bowers' "Tragic Era," and others. The following ladies will take part in the program: Mesdames Roger Whittier, Ira Rader, Herman Herman, William Redding Sims and Misses Ethel Woolf, Sue Claffin and Lillian Kennedy.

DINNER AT EIGHT

Adapted From the Celebrated Stage Play by EDNA FERBER and GEORGE KAUFMAN

INSTALLMENT I.

"Cablegram for you, Mrs. Jordan." Millicent Jordan, who had been gazing reflectively at the ceiling, sat up in bed with a start and reached out for the blue and white envelope her maid had brought in. Eagerly she tore it open and took out the message. There was a single line: "Delighted to dine with you next Friday at eight."

Emitting an involuntary cry of elation, Mrs. Jordan stepped into a pair of slippers, hastily threw a robe over her shoulders, and, clutching the cablegram tightly in her hand, hurried toward the sitting room, calling: "Oliver! Oh, Oliver! I've got the Ferncliffes!"

Oliver Jordan, her husband, was just finishing his breakfast. He put down his coffee and looked up quizzically. "What's the excitement, darling?" he asked.

"I'm thrilled to death! I've got the Ferncliffes!" Millicent repeated.

She put the cablegram down in front of him.

"I radiated them aboard ship last night," she said. "Wasn't that bright of me?"

Oliver showed no enthusiasm over the acceptance of the invitation.

"Yes, if you want the Ferncliffes," he said.

"What then? Why, you know everyone pounces on them! Besides, they entertained us in London."

"Yes, and I'll never forget it," Oliver nodded. "Dull as dishwater."

"Oh, how can you?" Millicent exclaimed. "A lovely formal English dinner."

"Yes—and Australian mutton," Oliver added scornfully. "And the guests who were a lot of people buried for years, just got up for that dinner."

"Don't be American, Oliver!" she pouted reflectively. "Friday—h'm— that gives me just a week."

Oliver rose from the table.

"I have a date next Friday with our daughter to hear Rachmaninoff."

"After all, Oliver," Millicent said, a little heatedly, "the Ferncliffes are terribly important. Haven't they got something to do with shipping?"

"I should think you'd want to talk to him. It's just as much your dinner as mine."

"Very well," he surrendered graciously. "Mr. Oliver Jordan accepts."

The entrance of Paula Jordan turned their combined attention to her. She was pulling on a pair of gloves.

"I saw him in 'Trelawney.' I could not forget it," she said. "He was a spinsterish old fellow."

"That was the last I did," the former actress answered.

"I was just a little girl," said Miss Copeland, "but I'll never forget it."

"How extraordinary!" Carlotta said, not pleased at this suggestion of her age.

Just then Oliver entered and he smiled with genuine pleasure at sight of his old sweetheart and friend.

"Well, for heaven's sake, Lotta! This is a surprise," he exclaimed.

"Carlotta rushed, "how are you? How simply marvelous to see you! I never was so glad to see anyone in my life!"

She kissed him dramatically on one cheek, then the other, embracing him, to the embarrassment of himself, Fosdick and Miss Copeland.

"Go in there and sit down," Oliver said, pointing to an inner office.

Carlotta stopped in front of a picture of Oliver Jordan's father, founder of the business.

"The only man I ever really killed," she remarked.

Her listeners started a little with the shock of her statement.

"He thought this son was going to marry a musical comedy queen!" she explained.

As she walked into the inner office, Oliver turned to his secretary.

"Did you get Mr. Packard?" he asked.

"Yes, sir. But what a time I had! His secretary was trying to get him himself. She told me to try the Amalgamated Copper Company, the Jockey Club, Al Smith... I finally got him in the swimming pool of the New York Athletic Club."

"Is he coming?" Oliver asked anxiously.

"He should be here any moment," Fosdick said.

"Let me know immediately."

He joined Carlotta in his private office.

"Heavens, what a hole!" Carlotta exclaimed as she entered Oliver's private office, "this is what I own stock in? I expected to see it all platinum and plush. What do you make down here—worm holes?"

Oliver laughed.

"It was good enough for my father. Gosh, I'm glad to see you again."

"Millicent called me this morning. She invited me to dinner."

"That's fine," Oliver smiled. "Now, tell me: what brought you to America?"

"The shattered fortune needs mending," Carlotta said seriously.

"Off to the marts of trade," she announced to her father. "Hello, mother!" She turned again to Oliver, speaking with good-natured scorn. "Lolling in boudoirs 9 o'clock in the morning! What's to become of the shipping business?"

Millicent's face lighted up with sudden excitement. Miss Copeland, who was in the room, suddenly remembered something. "An old flame of yours is in town. She got back from Europe day before yesterday."

"Carlotta Vance? Yes, I read it."

"I shall invite her. Isn't that nice of me?"

"Fine! I haven't seen her yet."

Oliver said to Paula, who was waiting for him to go to the office, "Paula, when does your fiancé get back to town?" Millicent inquired.

"About a week."

"Fine. Then I'll count on you and Ernest for the dinner Friday night."

"Dinner?" Paula asked.

Millicent turned to her husband. "Oliver, I should do a big dinner, shall I?"

"Shan't you?" Oliver asked whimsically.

"Please be serious. I think about 10 will be enough."

Business with the Jordan shipping lines was not what it used to be. Indeed, that morning Oliver himself went down to the dock, where the Castilian line being loaded and told Captain Cannon that he couldn't sail with only one-third of a cargo. For the first time in over a century a Jordan line boat was not sailing.

In his office, Oliver Jordan was being awaited by Miss Copeland, his secretary; Fosdick, an old retainer; and Carlotta Vance, former musical comedy queen, long retired from the stage.

"I saw him in 'Trelawney.' I could not forget it," she said. "He was a spinsterish old fellow."

"That was the last I did," the former actress answered.

"I was just a little girl," said Miss Copeland, "but I'll never forget it."

"How extraordinary!" Carlotta said, not pleased at this suggestion of her age.

Culbertson on Contract

Leads Through Strength and Up to Weakness.

BY ELY CULBERTSON.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

When defending against either a suit or notrump contract, there are many occasions when the defending player charged with the burden of the lead necessarily has to rely almost exclusively upon his own inference as to the choice of a suit to lead.

On such occasions the element of guesswork may be reduced by adhering to the general policy of leading through the strength in Dummy or up to the weakness in Dummy. To state it another way, when sitting at the right of the Dummy, it will generally be found advantageous to lead the suit in which Dummy holds tens positions, but when sitting at the left of the Dummy, it will generally be best, lacking other information, to lead the suit in which Dummy is weak.

This is merely an extension of the theory of leading from the weak hand to the strong.

In leading through broken honor strength in Dummy, there is, of course, no assurance that your partner holds the cards over Dummy's holdings. It is a general rule, however, that a lead through this broken strength is more likely to result advantageously than disadvantageously, and the same holds true of a lead up to marked weakness in Dummy.

Thousands Attend Funeral at Macon

These two scenes, taken at Macon Thursday during the services for W. L. Stribling, show a part of the tremendous crowd, estimated at 25,000, which witnessed the services at the auditorium and as the procession passed through the streets. At the left are the services at the cemetery. Mrs. W. L. Stribling is in the foreground at the right with her mother next to her and with the small son, eldest of the three children, next. Immediately behind the child is "Ma" Stribling, mother of the fighter. At the right are the services in the auditorium, showing the tremendous floral display and a part of the audience. The galleries were jammed and thousands crowded the streets outside the auditorium.

President Leads Parade to Series

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(UP)—Government business, investigations and the recovery program halted today for the World Series game. President Roosevelt led the parade. Senate investigations into stock market operations and ocean mail subsidies recessed at noon. Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, of the recovery act, found time to occupy a grand stand seat. Heads of government departments as well as office assistants were comfortably seated at Griffith stadium when the umpire cried out "play ball."

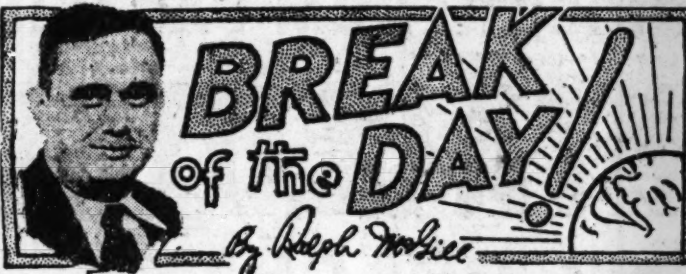

BULLPUPS FACE BEAR CUBS TODAY

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 5.—Georgia's 1933 freshman team will open its season here Friday afternoon against a strong team of Mercer freshmen, traditional enemies of the Georgia yearlings. Georgia's starting lineup will be as follows: Abney, center; Altman and Crowell, guards; Harman and Gatchell, both of Atlanta, tackles; Hall and Bonner, former Tech High star, ends; O'Malley, quarterback; Cavan and Alf Anderson, former DeCATUR aces, halfbacks, and Earl, fullback.

VEECK, PRESIDENT OF CUBS, IS DEAD

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(P)—Baseball lost a progressive and fearless leader today with the death of William L. Veck, president of the Chicago Cubs for the last 15 years. The baseball executive died in his sleep from the ravages of an almost incurable blood disease, acute leukemia, which resulted from an excess of white corpuscles in the blood. He was taken to a hospital Friday after being under the care of a physician for two years. He made no progress, began to sink rapidly, and expired early this morning after oxygen had been administered since yesterday to keep him alive. He was 56 years old. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 11 o'clock at his home in Hinsdale, a suburb. Burial will be in Hinsdale.

Although shocked and saddened, other officials of the Cubs decided that today's second game of the city series with the White Sox should be played, as Veck before his death had confided to his physicians that "if anything happens to me, I want the series to go on." So with the flags at half-staff the series did go on, with the spirited Cub players, who looked upon Veck almost as a father and their chief counselor, being shut out and playing a listless game. Charley Grimm, who was elevated from a player to manager of the Cubs in August, 1932, succeeding Rogers Hornsby, was heart-broken over Veck's death. Other players were similarly affected. "He was the fairest, squarest fellow that ever lived," Manager Grimm choked. "He was a true friend to every man on the team. His death is a great shock to us."

"This Was His Share of Pine and River and Sleepy Air"

MACON, Ga., Oct. 5.—Through the warm haze of an October afternoon they brought William Lawrence Stribling to the sunny slope of a hill and put him away for the long, long sleep.

From the hillside one could see the waters of the Ocmulgee river, red with the soil of Georgia. The fierce Cherokees called the river Ocmulgee, which means muddy waters, and they stood where Stribling, one of the greatest heavyweight boxers the game has ever known, is taking his last sleep, to watch for hostile fires.

But it is hostile no longer. There is the peace of hallowed land about it. And three lone pines stand there as tall, straight sentinels—as straight and as trim as W. L. was in life.

He had tramped the hills and valleys of Georgia hunting and fishing, and it was fitting that he should sleep on a sun-warmed slope. He had loved Georgia so that I thought of those lines from Benet's great book:

"This was his Georgia, this his share,
Of pine and river and sleepy air,
Of summer thunder and winter rain
That spills bright tears on the window pane
With the slight, fierce passion of young men's grief,
Of the mocking bird and the mulberry leaf.
For wherever the winds of Georgia ran,
It smells of peaches long in the sun—
Oh, Georgia . . . Georgia . . . the careless yield;
The watermelons ripe in the field;
The mist in the bottoms that tastes of fever,
And the yellow river rolling forever."

And so the planes thundered overhead and the rifles of the guard cracked in the air. They left him there with his share of pine and river and sleepy air. The south loves its Lost Cause, and the south does not always measure worth by success and failure. And so Georgia has taken this great young man to her heart, not realizing herself what a place he held in her heart until he was gone.

THE COPY BOOKS ARE NOT ALWAYS WRONG. W. L. Stribling exemplified all the old copy book maxims which are supposed to be out-moded and gone.

He attended Sunday school every Sunday. He said a blessing before each meal. He was in a tough and vicious profession, but it never touched him. He was a heavyweight who fought all the great fighters in this country and those of all the principal nations of the world.

He was always a timid sort of boy, so that even the boxing writers who lived with him at training camps could never really get to know him. He was never able to talk about what he thought. And so he cuffed his friends around and played jokes and flew a plane and drove a car as hard as he could.

He obeyed his father and his mother and he was a dutiful husband and a fond parent. He never was a part of the night life in this or any other city. All the old copy book maxims of life were his. And today more than 10,000 people jammed the great auditorium and thousands stood outside to wait for the procession to leave.

There were easily 10,000 people massed about the hillside where he was to be put to rest. And there were easily 15,000 lining the streets for the two or three miles to the hillside overlooking the muddy waters of the Ocmulgee.

And so it is no exaggeration to say that some 25,000 people saw W. L. Stribling on his last journey as a home-town boy went home. Perhaps the old virtues are best, after all.

THE STRIBLING'S CARRY ON. There were always some who couldn't understand the tremendous loyalty which the Striblings had in the south. As Mark Etheridge wrote in his great story, "Stribfrom Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who began his career in Birmingham 13 years ago, had the Giants at his mercy throughout—and he had no mercy. He not only pegged them with five hits but he had them throttled from start to finish. Whitehill had the old-fashioned winning mixture which consists largely of speed, curves and control—plus a cool head.

ENTHUSIASM GROWS. There was no wild enthusiasm as Whitehill retired the Giants in the first inning and the Senators came in to bat. But when Buddy Myer greeted Fitzsimmons with a clean single and Goose Goslin, the Salem Slugger, cracked a double, you would never have known it was the same place. The deep depression vanished with a rush. The sudden roar that greeted this double salvo came with a spontaneous outburst. Here at last was a Giant pitcher that wasn't using a machine gun.

Senatorial sluggers who had been looking at the mystic screw ball of Carl Hubbell and the fine pitching of Hal Schumacher saw their chance to break through. An infield out, and Schulte's single produced two runs—and the Senators were on their way. From that point on the Giants never had a chance. Whitehill was riding the crest. He had a fast ball that came sizzling through with blinding speed and a curve that broke two feet with a crack and a dip. Doubles by Myer and Bluege scored a second run in the second inning, and in the seventh the Senators added another on singles by Sewell and . . .

Senators Serve Notice On Men of Manhattan

Players Yell Like School Kids "We'll Be Tough From Now On."

By Ted Vosburgh, Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—From Clark Griffith and Joe Cronin down to the bat boy, the Senators served notice tonight that they were back in the battle for the world's championship and had hit a streak that would carry them through to the title in the biggest uphill fight in baseball history.

Flocking off the field and clattering down the runway to their dressing rooms, they slapped each other on the back and yelled like a bunch of college boys. But there was a touch of grimness underneath the hilarity. The Cronin-led gang has its dander up.

"We'll be tough from now on," exclaimed the veteran Washington owner, Griffith, as he looked around the dressing room after the game. "We play ball that way. When we hit a streak, we just keep right on going." Back in a corner his young short-stop-manager, Cronin, was able to grin for about the first time since two great Giant pitchers set his team back on its heels and swept those first two games up in New York.

SENATORS COME BACK. "We came back, didn't we?" he asked quietly. "I sure was happy the way the boys went about their work," he went on. "They had that old zip and snap, the old do-or-die spirit, and we were getting that extra hit that counts." "Whitehill looked superb," he said with a nod toward the showers where the big-chested, tangle-headed south-paw was sending the water flying and wearing the smile that won't come off. "I'm going to pitch Weaver tomorrow."

He handed some bouquets to the Giants, too, particularly Cris for the great back-handed stop he made of

Georgia Ready for Test With Tulane Saturday

LONG PRACTICE WINDS UP WORK FOR BULLDOGS

Key and Brown Look Good as Squad Ends Drills.

By Al Smith.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 5.—Georgia's bid for a victory over Tulane was signed, sealed and delivered tonight, ready to be opened for public inspection when the two teams meet at Sanford field Saturday afternoon.

A long offensive scrimmage in which Coach Harry Mehre used every available player, closed the heavy preparation for the battle with the Green Wave. A dummy scrimmage was held in the Memorial Hall gymnasium tonight. A last-minute conditioning practice is set for Friday afternoon, but the Bulldogs finished their real work for Tulane today.

Little Houston and Stan Brown were the cheerful notes in the scrimmage today. There was no defensive work at all, but the Reds were to run Tulane plays in dummy scrimmage today. Key seemed almost unstoppable today. He would go through the line on plays which some of the Reds have seen scores of times. Yet when he got through there was no stopping him. A pair of hands would grab Key, hold him a second, yet moments later Key would be anking down field and the Red tackler would be sprayed out on the ground with a foolish look on his face.

Brown, not much heavier than Key, swung into action at right halfback with the second team. He made some notable runs against the Reds. Once he ambled along the sidelines for 50 yards, somehow managing to keep away from the Red tacklers.

The gloomy note in the day's work-out was caused by the second-stringers, who for a time had difficulty in getting started. Instructions from Coach Mehre, and his assistants, coupled with a little caustic comment, served to get the boys straightened out and by the time the day's work ended they were doing pretty well.

Charley Opper, regular tackle, and John McKnight, sophomore center who did yeoman work in the N. C. State game, were not in the scrimmage today. Opper has been out for several days with a bad cold and he has been given plenty of time to recuperate. McKnight suffered a sprained ankle a couple days ago. He was in uniform today, but he remained on the sidelines for the duration of the scrimmage. Coach Mehre expects both McKnight and Opper to be ready to go Saturday.

TWO SOPHOMORES.
Jesse Morgan and Allan Shi, sophomore tackles, were on the first team today. Shi was the only sophomore to start last Saturday. He will very likely start against Tulane. Morgan is not certain as a starter, yet it would not be surprising to find him out there when the team trots on the field Saturday. Morgan was on the Reds until this week. Since his transfer he has consorted with the varsity and has thoroughly justified his change from the Reds.

Charley Jacobson was advanced to a varsity end for a part of the scrimmage today. The end situation has had Coach Mehre worried lately. At present he has only Captain Graham Batchelor, Charley Turbyville and Henry Waggon on whom he can really depend. Lew Cordell is out with a broken hand. The others have been slow in developing for various reasons.

Bowling

MERCHANTS BOWL TONIGHT.
The Atlanta Economy Drug Company and the Pioneer Press teams, leaders in the Merchants' Bowling league, will each be trying to break the tie as the league resumes the third week of play at 8 o'clock tonight.

The schedule for tonight: Grinnell Company vs. Atlanta Economy Drug Company; Pioneer Press vs. Fox Manufacturing Company; $1,000 Guaranteed Products vs. Davison-Faxon Company; De Foe & Austin vs. Lamar-Rankin Drug Company.

AUTOMOBILE LEAGUE.
The Automobile Bowling league opened with only half of the teams being scheduled, the other teams being scheduled to catch up these games at a later date but with the assurance that all teams will be in line for play next Thursday.

M. M. Harrison Company, United Motors Service and Candler Building Garage were well represented Thursday evening as the records opened and high scores were hung up on all sides. There is little doubt but that ling never came back with plumes on his banners as did Ty Cobb and Bobby Jones. Somehow he always fell a bit short in his great chances. Yet the Striblings inspired a fierce loyalty. It was not that Georgia was being loyal to a fighter. But it was loyalty to a family which was honest and sincere and loyal itself."

The telegrams and cablegrams of condolences came for two straight days at the rate of one every fifteen minutes for 24 hours a day. It was an amazing flood of messages.

There were wires from every state in the Union. There were cablegrams from England and Australia and South Africa. They were not the usual perfunctory wires. Most of them were lengthy and written with sincerity. They came from the high and the low in all walks of life.

No one thought to pick out a number on one of the cards of listed, formal messages which the telegraph companies display. These were written by the thousands who sent them. The south loves its causes and especially does it love its Lost Causes and Stribling was one of these.

THE LAST GREAT RALLY.
"Pa" and "Ma" Stribling asked to be left awhile there on the sun-warmed slope when the crowd was gone.

They had brought him into the world and seen him leave it. They had been at his corner in all his great fights and they were there today when a dying sun performed the daily alchemy of turning the muddy waters of the Ocmulgee into gold.

Their faces wore that same set look I had seen that cruel night at Cleveland when Stribling's last great rally against the German had not been enough to win him the world's title. They had seen him totter up in the fifteenth round and stagger toward his foe, his arms up and his eyes seeking the target. And they had watched him rally and lose in the hospital room. "He fought," "Pa" said, "as hard as he did against Schmeling but he couldn't win."

They left him late, sleeping the last sleep on the Georgia hillside with the golden Ocmulgee below him.

Loftin, Tulane Back, Headed For Great Year

By Horace Renegar.

Tulane athletic representative, who is in Atlanta ahead of the team.

Joe Loftin, of Tulane, may prove to be the diplotodus of southern full-backs this year.

Backfield Coach Lester Lautenschlager, of the Green Wave, believes Loftin will establish himself before December as one of the great fullbacks of all time American grid-iron history.

Loftin, a week late starting since he was out because of injuries in the Texas A. & M. game, will turn his stuff on the Georgia Bulldogs Saturday at Athens.

Potentially, this youngster is declared to be better than Nollie Feltz or Peggy Flournoy in their heyday at Tulane. Lautenschlager believes that Loftin now has the finesse to go on his own.

Last year without a great deal of preparation, Loftin was unexpectedly called up from the post of third-string fullback to fill Feltz's shoes. He did the job remarkably well.

In spring training, he gained more weight and more speed, as strange as the fact may appear.

He now weighs 181. He is fast. He can pass. He can hit a line. He can run the tackles. He can snap passes. He can block. He can defend against passes.

He would have made a whale of a difference to that Green Wave team that lost last Saturday, 13 to 6, to the strongest Texas A. & M. team in years although Tulane outgained the Texans, 10 first downs to 4.

Loftin, too, has class. He has acquired poise and polish. He has terrific drive. He can handle the ball to a perfection and will be a major spot in the Wave offensive Saturday at Athens.

PESEK SIGNED FOR BOUT HERE

John Pesek, "The Tiger Man," is coming to Atlanta on Tuesday night's wrestling card at the auditorium.

Pesek has been one of the greatest stars in the game for a number of years, and yet this will be his first appearance in an Atlanta ring in a number of years. He is really a tiger in action and is one of the best attractions in the east and middle west.

"I have been trying to land Pesek for Atlanta for four years," said Henry Weber, matchmaker, "and this is the first time I've been able to get him signed. I can guarantee the fans that he will be a real attraction."

Pesek, who has defeated London, Lewis and all the big-timers in past years, will meet Paul Jones, the wiry Texan, in the feature match.

In the semi-windup Jack Zarnos, the Ohio heavyweight, will wrestle Frank Speer. Speer lost to O'Shocker last week, but made an excellent showing and will be given another chance. Wrestling fans were a bit surprised when O'Shocker refused to show the home-town boy any mercy.

But Speer's game fight won him new friends.

The Pesek-Jones match will be a two-hour limit affair with the semi-windup limited to one hour. Tickets are on sale only at the Piedmont Hatters.

MORRIS BROWN WORKS FOR GAME

A light scrimmage and a long punting and passing drill Thursday and a signal drill today will complete Morris Brown's preparation for its annual game Saturday afternoon against South Carolina State at Ponce de Leon park.

With a fine line and two exceptionally good ends and with a capable passer, Morris Brown has stressed its aerial attack in preparation for Saturday's game.

All of the players are in excellent condition and a full squad of varsity and reserve players is ready to take the field.

A special section of the grand stand has been reserved for white fans.

The automobile league will prove to be one of the most popular in the city as the season progresses.

PETRELS LEAVE FOR NEW YORK AND MANHATTAN

Squad of 25 Off for East Hopeful of a Victory.

By Jack Troy.

Despite the old injury jinx having sunk its sharp teeth deeply into the offensive strength of the team, Coach Harry Robertson and 25 Oglethorpe players took to the long ribbons of steel late yesterday afternoon with still an unwavering hope of beating Manhattan Saturday afternoon at the Polo Grounds.

Lawrence Wade, star sophomore quarterback and triple-threat player, and Jack Harrison, hard-running veteran wingback, were disconsolate figures on the platform at Oglethorpe when the train pulled out.

A wrenched knee in practice incapacitated Wade and a first-game injury to Harrison's ankle caused him to miss the trip.

"I could give Meehan a great battle if I had those two backs along," Robby said. "Now I am not so sure."

The Petrels took a light workout yesterday. Coach Robertson shifted the team around and announced that it would stand pat for the game.

Pickard and Freeman, sophomore ends, will start in place of Captain Thurmond and Craven. McNeely will be at guard for Herriott. The remainder of the line includes Robison and

Smithies Defeat G.M.A. Cadets, 19-3

By Roy White.

A fighting Tech High team that refused to give up found itself in the fourth quarter and defeated G. M. A., 19 to 3, Thursday night at Ponce de Leon park in the first of several prep football games.

kick from the 15-yard line late in the first quarter gave the Cadets a lead that looked like a mountain for three quarters. The Cadets then resorted to a defensive game and apparently were well on the way to victory, when the Smithies broke loose.

G. M. A. fought a great defensive game during the first half and played a head-up game. The Cadets recovered a Tech High fumble on the 4-yard line to stave off a touchdown in the second quarter and again in the third period grabbed another Smithie fumble on their 1-foot line.

Tech High refused to be beaten, despite the costly fumbles and started the winning drive early in the fourth period.

Receiving the ball on their own 45-yard line, Dowling, Ellis and Perry made a first down. Three more tries netted another first down.

Ellis added 9 more yards and a 5-yard Cadet penalty gave Tech High another down. Dowling then broke over blocking by Newlands, ran 16 yards to a touchdown. He kicked the goal for the extra point.

Hinson recovered a G. M. A. fumble on the Cadet's 9-yard line and Perry fought his way to a touchdown. A moment later Perry received a punt and dashed 35 yards to the final touchdown.

Crews, a substitute G. M. A. back, did a great job of punting. After recovering the Tech High fumble on the 1-yard line, he punted 55 yards out of danger. His punts throughout the game averaged well over 35 yards.

Perry also did some neat punting for Tech High.

The blocking of the entire Smithie team was outstanding in the final quarter.

GORDON, PURPLE GAME TONIGHT FEATURES CARD

Decatur, North Fulton, Commercial and Marist in Action Here.

By Roy White.

Boys' High plays Gordon Institute at 7:45 o'clock tonight at Ponce de Leon park in the second game of the season in defense of the 1932 state crown. Tonight's game also marks a renewal of the bitter rivalry that existed for so many years between the two institutions, and is the first time in several seasons that Kid Cecil's team has played before an Atlanta crowd.

Russell meets Marist College, a much improved team, at 3 o'clock at Ponce de Leon park and Decatur, defending champion of the N. G. I. C., plays North Fulton at 7:30 o'clock at Decatur.

Three other Atlanta prep teams will be away from home. Commercial plays at Rome and Fulton meets Gainesville in the north Georgia city this afternoon and University school plays Darlington school in Rome Saturday afternoon.

Both the afternoon and night game at Ponce de Leon park should be well worth the while. Decatur should have no trouble with North Fulton tonight.

Marist is one of the most improved teams in the city and proved its recent development by holding G. M. A.

Football Schedule

to a scoreless tie and defeating R. E. Lee at Thomaston on successive weeks. Russell won its opening game with Commercial and has shown steady improvement this week. The winner will then battle it out with Decatur later in the season for the N. G. I. C. crown.

The week's preparation has been spent in perfecting a defense for the big Red and White Cadets, for a long, light signal, passing and punting drill completed the practices Thursday afternoon.

Boys' High's line, with Captain Maffett and Allen at ends, Ginsberg and Turner at tackles, Brooks and DeLoach at guards and Jones at center, will stack up favorably against the Gordon line, but the difference will be in the backfield.

Only Atkinson and McQueen are left from the 1932 Purple backfield and both are unusually light. J. Carlisle Smith, son of the former Cracker, and Gerakitis, a lineman last year, are the additions to the Purple's backs.

Coach Cecil was undecided as to his starting lineup Thursday night.

URBAN LEAGUE WEEKLY BULLETIN

By JESSE O. THOMAS.

Possibly the greatest and most decisive battle won by the negro group during the past 40 years was the fight against illiteracy which has been reduced from 51.1 per cent in 1880 to slightly in excess of 16 per cent today. The per cent illiterate is now very much lower for the negro population than it is for those foreign-born white inhabitants of the United States whose country of birth was Italy, Poland, Lithuania or Syria.

The census bureau defines as illiterate as any person 10 years of age or over who is not able to read and write, either in English or in some other language. In general, the illiterate population as shown by the census may be assumed to comprise only those persons who have had no education whatever.

Of the 4,283,753 illiterate persons 10 years old and over in the United States, 2,196,293, or 51.2 per cent, are white; 1,513,892, or 53.3 per cent, are negroes, and 302,643, or 8.5 per cent, belong to other races. Representative only 9.7 per cent of the total population, however, it is quite evident that the number of negro illiterates is still far out of proportion to the negro population, but due to the fact that more than 28 per cent of the negro illiterates are 55 years of age and over, it is reasonable to believe, judging from past performance, that within 15 or 20 years, negro illiterates will be few in number. Although there are 163,000 more negro females than males 10 years of age and over, there are 90,000 more illiterate negro males than females in the United States. Among the native whites there is both an excess of males 10 years old and over and of male illiterates.

In 28 states, including all of the northern states except Iowa and Missouri, and Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia, and the District of Columbia, the per cent illiterate is higher for the foreign-born white than for the negro population. In Kansas, Washington and Wyoming the per cent illiterate is the same for both groups. Colorado and California are the only states in the west having 10,000 or more negro inhabitants and in both of these the illiterate percentage is higher for the foreign-born white element. New Mexico, with less than 3,000 negroes, is the only state in which the per cent illiterate for the native white is higher than for the negro population. Eight states having 55 per cent of the total negro population of the United States also have approximately 75 per cent of negro illiterates. South Carolina leads with the highest per cent, followed in the order named by Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Georgia, Virginia and Florida.

In Baltimore, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Washington the per cent illiterate is lower for the negro than for the foreign-born white population. With an increase of 1,428,012 in population, a substantial decrease in death rate accompanied by a decrease of 328,269 in the number of illiterates during the last census decade, the negroes are gradually reaching a point in their racial development where their economic progress should be more rapid than in the past.

In an effort to stimulate continuity in business development among negroes in Atlanta, the "27 Club" offers an award to the person who has conducted a business continuously for 27 years in Atlanta. A committee composed of professional and business men and educators, who are not members of the club, was appointed by the club to select the individual in the city to whom this medal should be given. After much deliberation and thoroughly looking the field over, the committee decided to give the award to David T. Howard, director of the David T. Howard Funeral home.

This award will be presented to him Sunday, October 8, at 4 o'clock, in the main auditorium of Big Bethel church. Howard has been a member of Big Bethel church for more than one-half century. The program for this occasion will be made up of prominent speakers representing both races.

The significance of the occasion, Howard's reputation and standing, together with the type of persons making up the program indicates that this will be one of the largest attended and most historical occasions this community has witnessed.

Loss of Seniority Valued at $15,000

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 5.—(UP)—S. S. Mitchell, former switchman for the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley railroad, a subsidiary of the Illinois Central, was awarded $15,000 damages against the railroad by a jury in Hinds county circuit court today for alleged violation by the railroad of a labor union contract.

Mitchell charged that after the Y. & M. V. bought the old Alabama & Vicksburg railway it violated the labor contract of the old road by making up a new seniority list of Vicksburg yard employees, this list not recognizing services of employees on the old road prior to its sale.

He charged that this robbed him of "seniority."

Sage Hen Hunters Honest.

H. W. Knox, of near Livingston, Mont., believes in the honesty of sage gun hunters. More than 38 years ago Knox lost a pocketbook in his grainfield. Recently a hunter found the purse in the field, and returned it to Knox. In the purse were checks for $1,500 and $45 in currency—all good. The pocketbook, made of strong leather, apparently had been ploughed under the ground, then ploughed up again.

Salaries Pay Back Taxes.

Tax Collector Theodore E. Blodgett, of Holland, Mass., has discovered a new and effective means of dealing with delinquent taxpayers. He seized the wages of 28 town officials (there are only 150 inhabitants of Holland) and applied them on back taxes. One of the towns whose wages were seized was Blodgett's father, Arthur Blodgett.

FRENCH FLIERS FAIL IN DISTANCE ATTEMPT

LONDON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—A Reuters New Agency dispatch from Karachi, India, late today said the French long-distance fliers, Jean Asplant and Rene Lefebvre, had landed there, ending their unsuccessful attempt to beat the distance flight record held by their two countrymen, Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi.

The pair took off from Oran, Algeria, yesterday, and had hoped to fly as far as Bangkok, Siam.

MAD WRITER DIES IN BATTLE AGAINST INSANITY, CANCER

VINITA, Okla., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Marion Marie Woodson, 64, author and news writer, who had spent most of the last three years in a battle for sanity locked inside the Eastern Oklahoma hospital here, died today.

His death at dawn was an anticlimax after the fight Woodson had won against mental disorders attending dipsomania.

He died of an incurable bone disease just seven months after a Tulsa judge restored him to full citizenship. When a feature writer for the Tulsa (Okla.) World in 1931, Woodson had friends there commit him and, while dragging his clouded intellect from the depths of illness, he jotted down what he saw and experienced at the institution.

The resulting book, "Behind the Door of Delusion," was published as the work of "Inmate, Ward 8," it has been selected as parallel reading

TRUXTON TO BE NAMED COLLECTOR AT NORFOLK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, told newspapermen today President Roosevelt had agreed to appoint J. W. Truxton, of Norfolk, Va., as collector of the port of Norfolk.

Truxton will succeed Joseph Crupier, of Alexandria, Va., republican, who resigned recently.

The appointment was urged upon the president at a conference today by Senators Glass and Byrd and Representative Darden, all Virginia democrats.

for students in sociology at several colleges.

Woodson suffered a broken arm in a motor car accident while taking a brief holiday with one of the hospital physicians the past summer. Close examination when the arm failed to heal showed a "sarcoma" (cancer) of the arm, shoulder and lungs.

Although in intense pain, Woodson declined to grow despondent. Fully aware his hours were few, he wrote recently to a Tulsa friend, sending a "cheery farewell."

Famous Ace Sleeps On Pullman Plane

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, world-famous ace, and Alexander Strong, of Boston, today are the first two men in the United States to have slept all night in beds aboard an airplane traveling from one city to another with all the comforts of a Pullman coach.

They took off from Candler field at 7:20 o'clock Thursday night and this morning at 5:40 o'clock were due to land in New York city on the overnight Atlanta-to-New York service of Eastern Air Transport, Inc.

Two berths have been installed in the Curtiss Condor ship and a regular service will be maintained by the company. Plans are being made whereby eight berths will be regular equipment in night-flying planes in the near future.

Two other passengers were in the plane, reclining in comfortable chairs, which is the usual equipment for the plane. Strong is a construction engineer and is a regular passenger aboard E. A. T. ships.
